Five Hundred More Members for the In-dustrial Procession.

The following are the latest addition of names to the list of the Industrial Parade:

Fleischmann & Co., 1 wagon; Iron Moulders' Union, No. 3, 200 men; G. Fox, 2 wagons; Mills, Spellmire & Co., 2 wag-ons; Geo. S. Blaney, 1 wagon; A. Marsh, 1 wagon. One of the amusing features of the pro-cession will be the News Boys' turn-out.

One of the amusing features of the procession will be the News Boys' turn-out. They propose to furnish a wagon decorated in appropriate style with an elevated platform, on the top of which numerous members of their profession will exhibit their skill in the execution of their art. The boys will also furnish their own marshal, mounted upon a flery steed handsomely caparisoned. The rank and file will number, all told, 250 boys, which will be quite an addition to the already lengthy procession.

It is probably just as well to mention the fact here that the idea seems to prevail among some of our leading firms that there is no need of hurry about this matter, as the ranks will always be open to receive them at any time and just where they would choose to go. This is a fallacy. The orders with regard to this matter are imperative and will be carried out to the very letter, as it would be an absolute impossibility to handle a procession like this if any lax-it would be an absolute impossibility to handle a procession like this if any laxity were shown at any point. Those who do not desire to be placed at the tail-end of a five-mile procession had better see Mr. St. Martin at once at his office, No. 69 West Fourth street.

Some Slight Shooting.

Last evening about midnight, the people in the immediate neighborhood of Vine and Longworth streets were startled at the sound of pistol shots that rang through the usually quiet air of that late nour. Private watchman John Kom-mescher, who was standing in front of Joe Moser's saloon on Vine street, has-tened to the spot and found a very excited individual with an elevated pistol about to try a flying shot at a pair of coat tails that were meandering at a lively gait down Vine street. With the help of Officers Mechan and Peter Elchelberger, the gentleman was brought to order, and a subsequent examination re-vealed his name as Nat Homer, a showman and brother-in-iaw of Billy Emerson, the victim of his deadly intentions being Wm. Merk, city editor of the Volksfreund. The cause of the shooting was some alleged standerous remarks on the part of the ungallant Merk with regard to Mr. Homer's sister, the wife of Brily Emerson. Mr. Merk had encountered Mr. Homer once before, rather earlier in the evening, and had been carrying a blue band around his north eye as a glight token of that gentleman's esteem ever since the meeting. man and brother-in-law of Billy Emer

The opinion is now entertained by some geologists that the earth is shrinking—chiefly about its equatorial region—and is being thrust out in the direction of the poles; and the distribution of this force may, it is thought, be correlated with that of terrestrial magnetism. It is to a great extent proved that volca noes are not found in areas of upheaval but are indicative of areas of depression. They are most numerous in the equatorial regions, and are found to constanty increase in numbers as the equator is approached from the poles. It is also a remarkable fact that the two volcanic groups of the Antilles and the Sunda Islands are situated exactly at the antipodes of each other, and also in the vicinity of the two poles of flattening, the existence of which on the surface of the globe has been proved by the recent calculations of astronomers. Many instances are known of magnetic disturbances coinciding with earthquakes but are indicative of areas of depression ances coinciding with earthquakes— hence the supposed probable connection between the two phenomena.

With a cadaverous countenance and crape on his hat he waited at a Paris station for the coffin to be lifted out of the train; it was heavy, for it was lined with lead. While the people looked on with sympathy and wondered if it was his wife, his mother or his father, the well-informed police invited him into a private room, where they opened the coffin and emptled it of its Brussels lace.
